

ROBERTO CARLOS LANGE (AKA HELADO NEGRO) ANNOUNCES NEW KITE SYMPHONY, FOUR VARIATIONS EP

A collection of “impressionistic sound pieces” made in collaboration with visual artist Kristi Sword

By Eric Torres – June 24, 2020

Roberto Carlos Lange, November 2019 (Scott Dudelson/Getty Images)

Roberto Carlos Lange (aka Helado Negro) has announced a new four-song EP, Kite Symphony, Four Variations, to be released this Friday (June 26) via Ballroom Marfa. The collection of “impressionistic sound pieces” is based on graphic scores created in collaboration with visual artist Kristi Sword and was recorded at the Marfa Recording Company in Texas while Lange and Sword were in residence. Twenty-five percent of proceeds from the EP will benefit the nonprofit Texas RioGrande Legal Aid.

Listen to the single “Cloud Wow 002” below. This April, Lange released the Xenia Rubinos collaboration “I Fell in Love” as part of the Adult Swim Singles Series. This Is How You Smile, his most recent album as Helado Negro, was released last year.